Today

Horse, Dog, Mustache. Wife.
Fainting, Then Booming.
England Is Mistaken.
Steel Profits, One Billion.

THE rules of West Point forbid the cadet to have "a horse, dog, wife or mustache." Cadet Paul Capron, Jr., found he could get along without the horse, dog or mustache. But when he saw Marguerite Gillespie, Cadet Capron decided that the academy rules were too strict.

Miss Gillespie is now Mrs. Capron, and Mr. Capron, no longer at West Point, is now looking for a newspaper job in Boston. This writer will give him one temporarily in New York while he looks for something better.

ANCIENT Sparta had rules similar, but more severe for young men. It is wise to bar mustaches that gather germs. Horses and dogs are not necessary. But, why didn't a young West Pointer marry if he wants to marry.

WALL STREET began business Thursday with a fair, but not very optimistic outlook. Some pessimists said the real trouble is coming. Confidence returned, the prices went up from 5 to 20 points, and optimists said, "all the trouble is over."

BOTH were mistaken. SOME little speculators that rejoiced and were exceeding glad when Mr. Rockefeller said he and his son were buying stocks that were good investments wonder what is the matter with the Rockefeller Standard Oil stocks. They apparently have not been bought to any considerable extent and are still in the doldrums.

ENGLAND, badly mistaken, says, "American stocks will decline to a yield level," meaning that American stocks that pay 5 in dividends will sell not above $100. Those that pay $10 dividends will sell not above $200, etc.

That is fallacious. Those that know the United States consider present yield for present income, and future greater earnings as the basis of real value.

GOOD stocks are controlled by enormously rich men, that dislike income tax payments. They say to their managers, "Don't pay me big dividends and make me give so much to the government."

Reinvest my earnings, buy more good properties, make your company more valuable, then hand me 'stock dividends' on which I don't have to pay the government anything.

DON'T gamble. But don't believe for one minute that the value of things in America depends on present dividends or on the rent that real estate happens to pay at the moment. "It hath not yet been shown what we shall be." That applies particularly to dividends.

IF you have a steel business and you can't sell, you can make money in America, with help of a protective tariff. Income tax reports of the leading steel companies show that in six years past they have paid income tax of one thousand million dollars of profit.

A billion in six years is good profit, but no more than a great industry should make in a prosperous country.

THE benefit of buying at home from your own people even if you pay a little more, resides in the fact that the money stays here, goes into other American enterprises, more factories, more production, more prosperity.

Sheriff Nabs Man Who Fled From Custody

JOHN DUDAS, SALEM, GOES TO COUNTY JAIL

Rum Law Offender Is Captured in Warren.

HELD FOR FINE Walked From Court-house Without Paying $1,000.

John Dudas, 35, Salem, who walked out of the courthouse, Lisbon, on September 28, after being fined $1,000, was back in the county jail at Lisbon today, following his arrest in Warren by Sheriff W. J. Barlow.

Among 29 arrested Dudas, whom Sheriff Barlow trailed from Lisbon to Canton, to Youngstown, to Struthers, to Campbell and to Warren in the six-week interim, will spend several days in the dungeon at the county jail as a punishment, the sheriff said today.

Dudas was among 29 alleged liquor violators nabbed by state agents and county officials in raids during the latter part of September. He had been arrested and fined $200 on each of two liquor charges before he was brought into court again, charged with the possession of 10 gallons of whiskey, found in a store at 126 Depot street, Salem.

Hidden by Friends After Dudas had been fined $1,000, Sheriff Barlow left him talking with Steve Cosgara, Salem, who was also in court, while another prisoner was being arraigned. While the sheriff was thus occupied Dudas slipped from the courthouse and made his getaway.

Sheriff Barlow took up the trail which led to Canton but found that Dudas had left there before he arrived. According to Barlow, Dudas had been in hiding at the homes of friends since his disappearance. He was finally located in a Pine street house in Warren and offered no resistance when he was placed under arrest.

EMBLEM CLUB IS ORGANIZED

Constitution and bylaws were adopted by the Emblem club at their first monthly meeting in Y. M. C. A. banquet hall last night. Report of the committee on constitution was given by Richard Wilson and adopted. James Waggle and Walter Simms were appointed to prepare the entertainment for the next meeting which will be held Friday, Dec. 13.

Piano solos by Frank Hancock and a short address by Earl M. Carlton were features of last night's meeting.

NEW REVIVAL IS PREDICTED

Rev. O'Brien Urges Repentance at Baptist Revival.

"Another revival will shortly sweep the world or the second coming of Christ is imminent," averred the Rev. A. H. O'Brien, the pastor at the First Baptist church last evening. "Churches have gone in for an emphasis on socialistic rather than the individual need for repentance."

Another large audience that overflowed into the Sunday school room attended the service.

TOASTMASTER

Attorney Blaine H. Cochran will be toastmaster at the Armistice day banquet, sponsored by the American Legion and the Veterans of Foreign Wars, to be held at the Travelers' Club.

SEVEN SCHOOL ISSUES LOSE IN BALLOTING

Twelve are Approved in Districts of County.

FUNDS ARE LOW Authorities May Cut Length of 1930-31 Term.

LISBON, O., Nov. 9.—Only seven of the 19 school proposals among 26 special issues submitted in Columbiana county districts last Tuesday were approved. County Auditor Elmer E. Walker announced today.

While the rural school districts have sufficient funds to complete contracts for the year, it is probable that the 1930-31 school levy will be curtailed by certain schools not opening until December instead of September.

"We are all set for the present term of school, but we are up against a proposition in some school districts next year," County Superintendent H. C. Leonard said today.

Auditorium Plan Rejected. Among the issues defeated were proposals for the construction of three new schools and the erection of a school auditorium. New schools were proposed for Knox township at a cost of $120,000; in Middleton township at a cost of $58,000 and in Unity township at a cost of $50,000.

Two and three-mill levies for five years were defeated in seven districts.

The list included: Leontina—Three mills for five years, defeated.

Leontina—Bonds for new fire station, defeated.

Wellsville—Exemption of school bond levies from limitations of law, approved.

East Rochester special school district—Two mills for three years, approved.

Madison township fractional school district—Two mills for three years, approved.

Unity township—Road levy, defeated.

East Palestine—Bond issue for purchase of new fire truck, approved.

Salineville Bond Defeated. East Palestine school district—$65,000 bond issue for new school auditorium defeated.

East Liverpool—Three-quarter mill for five years for City hospital approved.

CHURCHES WILL HONOR SOLDIER DEAD SUNDAY

Salvation Army and Presbyterians Plan Services.

VETS TO ATTEND Banquets and Other Features on Armistice Day.

Eleventh anniversary of the signing of the Armistice will be celebrated with patriotic services in the churches tomorrow.

Three programs commemorating the day will be featured here Monday, one by the American Legion and the Veterans of Foreign Wars, another by the American Order Sons of St. George and the third by B. P. O. Elks, who will entertain children of the Fairmount and the McCullough-Jefferson County Children's homes.

Members of the Legion and Veterans and other service organizations will attend services at the First Presbyterian church at 11 o'clock Sunday morning. A patriotic sermon will be delivered by the Rev. Dr. J. H. Lawther, pastor.

Memorial service for the dead of Company D, 135th Machine Gun Battalion, formerly Company E, Tenth Ohio Volunteer Infantry, will be held in the Salvation Army Citadel Sunday night. The speakers will be Field Major Joseph Hughes of East Liverpool and Major Howard Hinkle, Cleveland, who served overseas as welfare workers during the war.

Banquets Monday Night. Attorney Ben L. Bennett of East Liverpool and the Rev. Father E. J. Gracey, Wellsville, will be the speakers at the banquet at 6:30 o'clock Monday night. A musical program, also, will be a feature.

Attorney Blaine H. Cochran will be toastmaster. About 100 veterans, their wives and friends will attend.

The Sons of St. George Armistice Day banquet and dance will be held in St. Stephen's church parish house, West Fourth street, at 6 o'clock Monday night. Attorney W. H. Vordrey will be toastmaster, and speakers will include Attorney S. W. Crawford, Captain W. E. F. Bugg and Cadet N. H. Cochran of the Church Army, Miss Mildred Weaver, Oliver Johnson and Samuel Mountford will render solo numbers.

The program planned by the Elks for the 120 inmates of the two children's homes includes a motion picture show at the Ceramic theater, and automobile ride and dinner at the Elks' temple at 6 o'clock.

Manly will preside at the dinner and speeches will be made by Mayor Ralph C. Benedum, Probate Judge Lodge Riddle and others. A program by the children will follow. Members of the lodge will entertain with a dance after the children leave.

Georgetown Lad Injured. Wayne, 4, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Laughlin of Georgetown, Pa., was taken to the City hospital for the removal of a large splinter which pierced his leg when he fell on a rough board yesterday afternoon. Doctors C. H. Bailey and A. J. Michels rendered medical aid.

Prince of Wales Will Give Dinner Tonight For 321 British Heroes of World War

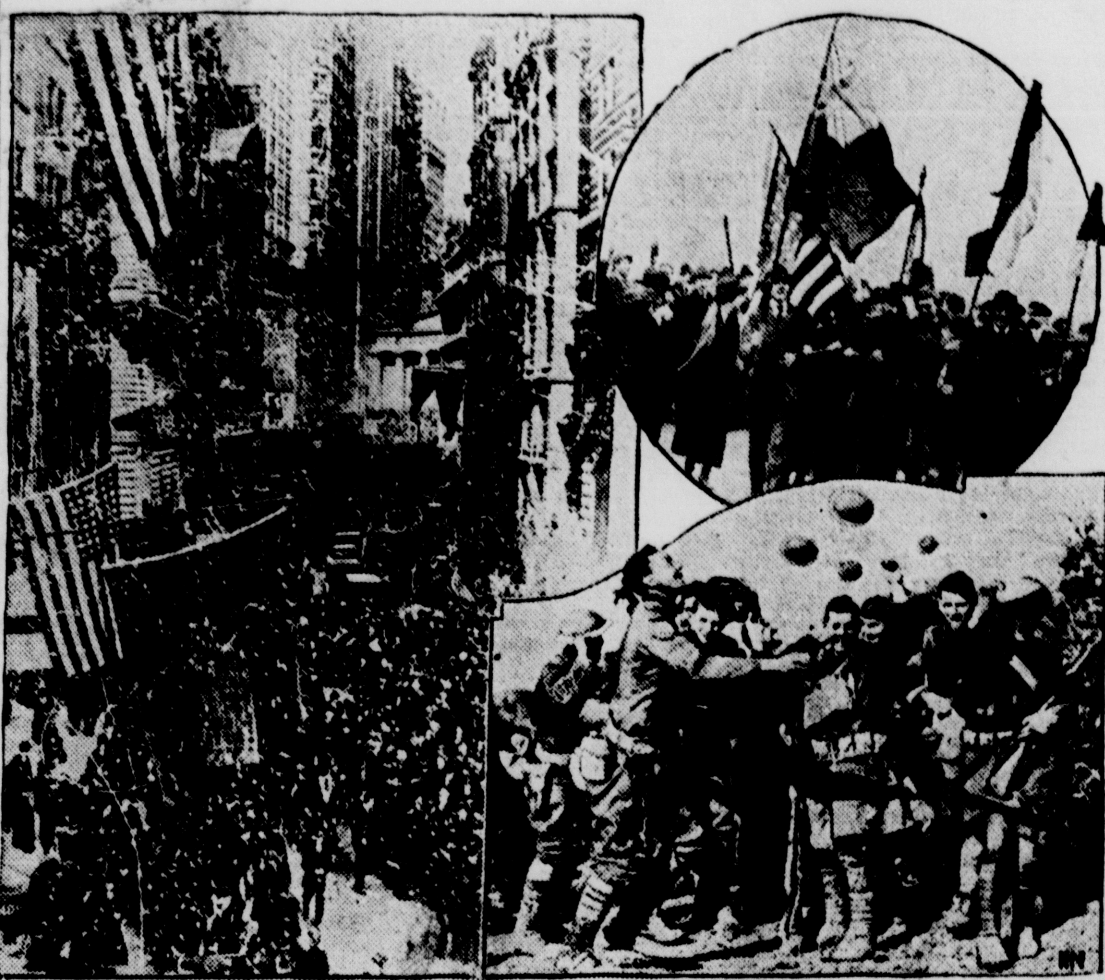

All Guests Wear Victoria Cross for Bravery.

By Kingsbury Smith. LONDON, Nov. 9.—(INS)—The Prince of Wales tonight is giving a dinner in the house of lords to 321 ex-soldiers from all over the British empire who by their individual heroism won the Victoria cross, the highest honor in the British army, during the World war.

Some of those attending have no arms. Others lost their legs in the war. Two are totally blind. Places at the table were drawn by lot. Viscount Gort was to sit on the left of the prince. Former Sergeant Burman, a chauffeur, was to flank his royal highness on the right.

This dinner was the prince's own idea and was suggested by him to the British Legion several months ago as the best way in which he might "do his share" of the eleventh anniversary of the armistice towards remembering the men who risked their lives to save the future throne.

WHEN TRUMPETS OF PEACE WERE SOUNDED

Eleven years ago, on November 11, 1918, the entire world rejoiced when the angel of peace appeared and heralded the end of the World war. At the left, a veritable maelstrom of rejoicing in the great money mart of Wall Street, when the word went out that peace had come to a war-weary world. Heads were bowed in silent prayer for the brave warriors who gave their lives on the battlefields. In Paris, the songs of victory which filled the air gave evidence that war had ended. No longer were they to hear the ear-piercing noise of cannonading. With tear-stained faces they were again able to laugh after four years of strife. At the lower right, the picture shows how the herald of peace was received by the doughboys. As these boys rejoiced at the front, other celebrations in almost every country in the war-ridden world were taking place.

FIVE DYING AFTER FIRE IN DETROIT HOME

Father, Mother and Three Children Are Burned.

OIL EXPLOSION Kerosene Poured Into Stove at Breakfast Time.

DETROIT, Nov. 9.—(INS)—A father and mother and their three children who were rescued from their burning home were believed dying of burns today in Highland Park General hospital.

Walter Wabel, 37, and his wife, Helen, 25, were severely burned when Wabel, preparing breakfast, poured kerosene into a kitchen stove in their one-story home. An explosion swept flames into the bedroom where Richard, 6; Eugene, 4, and Wanda, 2, were sleeping. The already badly burned parents rushed into the blazing bedroom and rescued the children.

Returns From Convention. Robert M. Newell, president of the Carpenters' union returned from Columbus today where he attended the annual convention of the Ohio State Council of Carpenters and the Ohio State Building Trades Council held this week.

BLAST WRECKS STORE FURNACE

Furnace in the basement of the Grumet fruit and produce store in St. Clair avenue, was wrecked by a gas explosion about 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon. There was no fire and no damage was done to the building.

The explosion is believed to have been caused by a leak in the gas pipe which was ignited from the fire in the furnace. The Central fire department was called to investigate the explosion.

NEW PLANE AT LOCAL AIRPORT

Earl Lawrence, East End, who recently graduated from a Cincinnati aviation school, has returned to his home here where he will spend the winter.

Lawrence returned with a three place Monocoupe, which will be kept at the Chamber of Commerce airport in Madison township this winter. Three planes are now being housed in the hangar at the Madison township landing field with prospects of at least four more being added before next spring.

Warning Is Too Late. The blast is believed to have resulted when one of the workmen lighted a cigarette.

Samuel Husted, one of the workmen in the plant who was injured in the blast, told authorities he smelled gas as soon as he entered the building this morning. He said he saw a fellow workman pull out a match to light a cigarette.

"Don't light that match," Husted said he yelled to the man. "We'll all be blown to hell."

The warning came too late, however.

Blast Rocks City. The next instant the terrific blast split, shattering the entire structure. A few minutes later flames leaped out of the wreckage and spread rapidly.

The shock of the explosion was felt all over the city. Scores of window panes crumbled. Several homes nearby the Timm plant caught on fire.

All available men of the police and fire departments were rushed to the scene of the explosion. Scores of volunteers aided in getting the situation under hand.

The Timm plant employs 50 men. Because of the early hour, many had not arrived at the building. Had the blast occurred a few minutes later, the loss of life would undoubtedly have been greater.

BANKS WILL BE OPEN MONDAY

East Liverpool banks and building and loans will not observe Armistice Day by closing. It was announced today, all financial institutions being open for business at the usual hours.

FIVE KILLED, FOUR INJURED IN GAS BLAST

Terrific Explosion Wrecks Plant in Elyria.

FAG IS BLAMED Workman Strikes Match, Ignoring Warning.

ELYRIA, O., Nov. 9.—(INS)—Five workmen were killed and four seriously injured when a terrific gas explosion wrecked the plant of the Timm Spring company here this morning.

The blast occurred shortly after 10 a. m., as the workmen were entering the plant.

Only one of the dead men is identified so far. He is John Raple, 21, a workman.

All of the bodies were horribly mangled, making immediate identification difficult.

Warning Is Too Late. The blast is believed to have resulted when one of the workmen lighted a cigarette.

Samuel Husted, one of the workmen in the plant who was injured in the blast, told authorities he smelled gas as soon as he entered the building this morning. He said he saw a fellow workman pull out a match to light a cigarette.

"Don't light that match," Husted said he yelled to the man. "We'll all be blown to hell."

The warning came too late, however.

This is the first year that Cleveland has been selected for the annual session of the pottery manufacturers who usually meet in New York or Washington. Last year's golden anniversary convention was held in the Waldorf-Astoria hotel, New York.

JURY RENDERS $125 VERDICT

A verdict of $125 in favor of the plaintiff was rendered by a jury of six persons in municipal court yesterday in the damage suit brought by James Emmerring, of this city, against Gilbert Smith, Alliance.

The suit was an aftermath to an automobile crash on the Lisbon-Salem road near Eagleton's Glens several months ago in which the Emmerring car is alleged to have been badly damaged. The plaintiff was represented by Attorney Ben L. Bennett while Attorney McCorkhill, Salem was counsel for the defendant.

PASTOR'S FATHER DIES IN MOLINE

The Rev. J. W. Whitfield, pastor of the Second Baptist church, East End, left today for Moline, Ill., where his father, D. M. Whitfield, 70, died yesterday. Mr. Whitfield is survived by two other sons, Walter and Lester of New York City. He also leaves a sister. Funeral services will be held in Moline tomorrow.

"But Mrs. M.... we don't wring your clothes!"

"And where do you wring the clothes?" inquired Mrs. M.... Like dry she had a natural curiosity on that point. She knows that wringing takes the life out of clothes. But we explained to her that in our laundry we do not wring clothes. They are removed from the washers and placed in large spinning baskets, where the water is taken out by a rapid whirling process, which makes it almost impossible to damage buttons or fabrics. And that is one more sound reason why clothes washed our way are cleaner and last longer.

ARMISTICE DAY PARADE HERE

Midland Veterans Will Go To Beaver Falls.

MIDLAND, Pa., Nov. 9.—Delegation, headed by the newly installed commander, Markle A. Hurt, will represent Midland post No. 481, American Legion, at the Armistice Day celebration which will be held Monday in Beaver Falls under the auspices of the Colonel Joseph H. Thompson post. Hurt has ordered all Midland Legionnaires to be at the borough building at 9 o'clock, from where an automobile caravan will carry the men to the upriver town.

Only local observance of the eleventh anniversary of the signing of the armistice will be the placing of a wreath on the granite cenotaph in Lincoln park by Boy Scouts. The boys will assemble at the school building at 8:30 o'clock and march to the World War monument.

Observance will begin at 2:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon when Secretary of Labor James J. Davis, Washington, will be the principal speaker at the memorial service in the Regent theater, Beaver Falls. The stage will represent the National cemetery. Thirty white crosses have been erected for the soldiers of Beaver Falls who were killed in the war.

Parade will form at 10 o'clock Monday morning, and will be headed by the state constabulary and the Gold Star Mothers, followed by American Legion delegations, floats, Boy and Girl Scouts and a large number of Polish veterans, headed by Lieutenant Zofia Nowosielska, a woman who fought on the eastern front disguised as a man.

URGES ACTION IN MOTOR TESTS

MIDLAND, Pa., Nov. 9.—November 15 is the last day of the period set aside by the state department of highways for motorists to have their automobiles or trucks tested at authorized service stations. Chief of Police William M. Fox announced today. Owners of all motor vehicles not bearing the square yellow sticker signifying an official examination will be arrested, fined and refused registration plates for 1930. Chief Fox said. The state motor code requires that headlights be aimed and focused and the braking and steering equipment be examined and the engine checked to insure safe and same driving.

MRS. HOLLOWAY BRIDGE HOSTESS

MIDLAND, Pa., Nov. 9.—Mrs. Harry Holloway entertained with a bridge party Thursday night at her home in Beaver avenue in honor of her house guest, Mrs. S. G. Richards of Coraopolis. There were five tables of cards in play. Honors were awarded to Mrs. W. H. Crawford and Mrs. Fred Mullin.

Color scheme of yellow and white predominated in the appointments and house decorations. Button chrysanthemums were given as favors. Mrs. R. E. Bromley and Mrs. M. N. Lindsey assisted Mrs. Holloway.

WELFARE CHEST LEADER NAMED

Rotary Club Names Midland Plan Committee.

MIDLAND, Pa., Nov. 9.—Attorney Edwin M. Walby has been named chairman of the committee of the Rotary club, to confer with officers of the American Legion, Civic club, Parent-Teacher association, Serbian and Croatian societies, Pittsburgh Crucible Steel Company Relief association, Sons of Italy and other organizations concerning the proposed founding of a welfare unit in the Steel City. A. A. Farnler, Daniel Daugherty, H. V. Herlinger and Dr. J. A. Lutz were appointed as Walby's aides by President Robert Lloyd. Tentative plans are to have each beneficial group in the borough represented on a general committee which will conduct an annual campaign for funds to maintain such work as adult education, Boy Scout movement, crippled and undernourished children, Red Cross campaigns, municipal recreation center and educational projects.

AID SOCIETY PLANS SUPPER

CLUB STEWARD FREED ON BOND

ROCHESTER, Nov. 9.—Howard Graham, alleged steward of the Central Turnverein, Pennsylvania avenue, is at liberty today under $2000 bond following a hearing yesterday before Justice J. Walter Lewis, New Brighton, on a charge of possessing liquor. State police allege they found 47 cases of beer and 25 gallons of mash and a quantity of whisky at the club.

TRUCK WORKER MEETS DEATH

BEAVER FALLS, Pa., Nov. 9.—Funeral arrangements will be completed today at Mahoningtown for Thomas Saff, 38, Beaver Falls, who died in Providence hospital from a fractured skull sustained when crushed under a coal truck in the yards of the College Hill station of the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie railroad yesterday morning.

Brady Murphy, also of Beaver Falls, truck driver of the Kenzie Coal company, Bonnetts Run, police said, had backed under a coal tippie for a load of coal and Saff had alighted to dump the coal. Murphy was moving the truck when he heard a scream. Coal officials believe Saff had attempted to remove a block from under the truck when he fell beneath the wheels.

Murphy was released on his own recognizance pending an inquest by Coroner Harry C. McCarter.

Armistice Day

With international peace a step nearer realization by reason of the strides made in the recent conferences between President Herbert Hoover and Premier Ramsay MacDonald, of Great Britain, on naval disarmament, the nation on Monday will mark the eleventh anniversary of the cessation of hostilities in the World war.

The great rejoicing that followed the news of the end of bloodshed in Europe on November 11, 1918, with the signing of an armistice by the allies and the Central Powers, is recalled today as East Liverpool prepares for another observance of that memorable day.

Eleven years ago an impromptu parade, in which enthusiasm knew no bounds, was organized as workers and employers quit their places in industrial plants, business houses and offices and marched. On Monday no parade will be staged, but the occasion will not be forgotten.

In many factories and business houses, a two-minute period of silence, in honor of the men who made the supreme sacrifice, will be observed as church bells ring out the hour of 11 o'clock, which signified the cessation of warfare in 1918. And banquets on Monday night by the American Legion and Foreign War Veterans and Sons of St. George and the Elks' entertainment for children of the McCulloch-Jefferson County and Fairmount homes will follow memorial services and patriotic sermons in the churches on Sunday.

And the keynote of all the commemorative programs will be agreement with Benjamin Franklin's appraisal, "There never was a good war or a bad peace." And wise statesmanship on both sides of the Atlantic is doing its utmost to convince the world that war accomplishes little in compensation for the lives it takes.

The Blue and The Gray

There is no longer any hope that the Grand Army of the Republic and the United Confederate Veterans will ever march together in a united body. It has been a cherished dream of patriots of both the North and the South since the termination of the hostilities of the Civil war, but it was destroyed recently by negotiations carried on between the Grand Army of the Republic and the United Confederate Veterans. Edwin J. Foster, commander-in-chief of the G. A. R., had invited the Confederate veterans to parade with his organization, provided that "you pledge to us that the Stars and Bars, your Confederate flag, shall have no place in the parade . . . but that you will march under the Stars and Stripes." General Sneed, commander of the Confederate Veterans, announced his rejection of such a proposal, declaring that Foster had "completely blown himself out of water."

Southerners of the old school have a high code of honor and the armistice at Appomattox Court House was a bitter event for them; those who were living at the time remember it vividly. Others, who have merely heard of it from their elders' lips may not regard it so bitterly. Immediately after the termination of the Civil war, hatred for the North was intense, but as another generation replaced the one which had been fired by the heat of actual battle, it gradually died out.

These good old Southern soldiers have no objection to the Stars and Stripes, the flag under which they have lived and reared their families. They do object strenuously, however, to completely outlawing their fighting colors—the Stars and Bars under which thousands of their comrades died contesting a cause which they believed to be just. The love which they retain for it has some right to recognition.

No harm could be done by including the Stars and Bars in a parade of the Union and Confederate forces. Its presence would merely be complimentary to the defenders of a gallantly lost cause. It would differ little from the recognition of flags of a foreign nation—flags which are respected as much for the people they represent as the principles they may have stood for in the past.

It's just possible that law and order are making progress in Chicago. An election was pulled off up there without a single murder at a polling place or even the beating up of a ward worker.

Two movie houses in St. Louis, where a strike of musicians is on, were dynamited at almost the same hour Sunday morning. That will hardly pass as an ideal way for developing public appreciation of melody.

A Warsaw beggar went insane when informed by the United States consulate there that his brother had died in Texas and left him $1,000,000. The probable fate of a lot of people in the event of news like that would be to die of heart failure.

A Washington dispatch is to the effect that treasury officials expect a good volume of Christmas trade despite the recent stock market panics. Naturally, it takes a lot more than a stock market panic to kill, or even dim, the giving manifestation of the Christmas spirit.

HASKIN LETTER DAILY

By Frederic J. Haskin

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 9.—When the September and October selling orgy broke the stock market and sent stocks of the highest class cascading down to levels which the wisest said were fabled, their fair value, a great many traders and investors felt certain that the recession was temporary. Prof. Irving Fisher of Yale University, one of the outstanding economists of the country, fortified the financial men with such an opinion. Dr. Julius Klein, assistant secretary of commerce, pointed out that the general prosperity of the country was so soundly bedded in productive industry, not directly connected with the market, that the buying power of the nation remained practically unimpaired by the losses sustained.

Although they admitted the gravity of the situation, the leading New York bankers pointed out that many of the losses were paper losses. To this Arthur Rae, a trader, answered that the statement was true but the paper was green and had the name of Andrew Mellon upon it and also the great seal of the United States.

But as black day succeeded black day on the market another group of economists began to wonder if it may not be possible that the country is crossing one of those lines of demarcation in economic development which can only be clearly recognized after it has been passed.

It is a vitally true fact that it never is possible at the time to judge precisely what the effects of a great financial upheaval will be. Guesses are possible and constantly made but most of them seem to be bad. For example, when the war broke out in Europe in 1914, it looked as though calamity loomed. The stock market knew such days of feverish unloading as it never had known before. The more recent breaks in the market have been compared with them. Everybody threw overboard all the stock he could sell. European owners of American securities were leaders in the selling. They wanted to realize on their investments. American buyers saw in the declarations of war an interruption to trade on a world scale with consequent loss in profits and value of securities.

Precisely the opposite happened. As soon as the war got well started it appeared that the demand for the output of American mills and factories and fields would be greater than ever before. Stocks soared to fantastic heights. Securities of little chemical companies, mining companies—all sorts of industrial and manufacturing concerns—went skyrocketing to unprecedented heights, never reached in the piping and prosperous times of peace. Those who had rushed to sell on those brittle August, 1914 days, when prices were cracking like broken glass, bewailed their lack of foresight and bought back at twice or ten times the price they had paid for their original investment. Even then they made money.

So it is that it is not yet possible to be certain as to whether or not the United States—and to some extent the rest of the world—has been passing across a line drawn between two distinct economic eras. For the rest of the world has been concerned. When the New York market broke, the bourses of the world broke with it. London, Paris, Berlin, Amsterdam, Tokyo, Stockholm—all the big markets experienced slumps. The United States is the money king and when values topple here the rest of the world cannot escape the reverberations.

The last period of serious depression which overtook the United States was in 1920-21. That was the inevitable result of the boom which the war produced and the post-war boom which kept getting bigger and bigger out of sheer momentum. Most men in business today remember how prices collapsed overnight. There were no such days on the Stock Exchange as have characterized the market this year but the sudden end of the carnival of high prices was reflected there.

The recovery from that depression was amazing rapid. Within two years prices were back again on a high but sounder level, wages were higher in some industries than they had been during the war, labor was well employed and prosperity returned. Actually, the boom in stocks which climaxed this autumn started right then. The market has been climbing up and up, with brief seasonal depressions, ever since and in the last two years has performed like a race horse in the home stretch.

Very different was the situation following the panic of 1907, the last previous one, known as the Roosevelt panic. There was a marked difference then in that a money shortage characterized and emphasized the demoralization of the stock market. That was because there was no Federal Reserve System then to assist in credit regulation.

What now will follow? If, indeed, the country must start over again and build up from the bottom, a new era will have been entered upon and the autumn of 1929 will be looked back upon as the turning point. It is too early to answer. Between now and the first of the year a new boom cycle may start; on the other hand there may be further successive crashes until some low level is reached from which there must be a long pull upward.

Questions and Answers.

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN.

Q. Why are some woods which are hard classed as soft woods, while some soft woods are classed as hard? W. J. W.

A. In the lumber trade, all coniferous trees are called soft woods and all broad-leaved or dicotyledonous trees are hard woods. Notwithstanding the fact that some coniferous trees have exceedingly hard woods, while the wood of the tulip tree is as soft as the white pine, the classification holds good.

Q. Did Blind Tom sing as well as play the piano? E. R. B.

A. His vocal imitations were almost as astonishing as his instrumental ones. One of his feats was to stand with his back to the piano while he played the Fisher's Hornpipe with one hand and Yankee Doodle with the other, while he sang Tramp, Tramp, Tramp, the Boys are Marching. He had an absolute pitch of unfailing accuracy.

The East Liverpool Review Offers a Booklet on Well-Balanced Meals

The problem of serving well-balanced meals often causes the conscientious housewife a good deal of worry. Adequacy, wholesomeness, attractiveness, and cost must all be considered.

The booklet, Good Proportions in the Diet, prepared by the States Relation Service of the Department of Agriculture, covers thoroughly every detail of food selection, tells what kinds of food are needed, gives the proportions and amounts of food required, and suggests a number of menus for well-balanced meals.

Every woman who is responsible for the meals of a household should have a copy of this booklet. Send for yours today. Fill out and mail the coupon below, enclosing four cents in coin or stamps for return postage.

Once Over

By J. J. Mundy.

Judging Actions.

Are't you too hasty in passing harsh judgment on persons and their actions?

Without waiting for explanations you form opinions and act accordingly. You may have done much toward ruining the reputation of one who is innocent of the charge you have made against him.

Undoubtedly, if you would stop to think, you might bring to mind many times when your own actions might have been misjudged.

Perhaps you consider your position secure and that none could think of accusing you of evil intent.

You place more confidence in human nature than is warranted, if you hold such an opinion. It is surprising how little it takes to cause a sentiment of serious suspicion against anyone.

If you are too quick in forming an opinion of others you are not giving people a square deal.

You are asking more than you are willing to extend to others.

The borrower is servant to the lender.—Bible.

Ambition is the mind's immortality.—Davenant.

A thing of beauty is a joy for ever.—Keats.

It is costly wisdom that is bought by experience.—Ascham.

Anger assists hands however weak.—Ovid.

Ritzy Rosalie

The Japanese characters which form the design in this printed crepe are supposed to say "Good Luck." Perhaps they do on the original cloth, but when I drew this picture I may have made them say, "I hope you don't feel hurt."

My knowledge of Japanese is about the same as my knowledge of Egyptian—practically nil. The good luck lines are interrupted by various Japanese scenes printed in color. As an added bit of information about cloth, there is the story that the water which is used in the process of dyeing the famous Scotch tartans is the same as that used in making an equally famous brand of Scotch whiskey. Perhaps they'll ban the cloth now, y'never can tell.

THE NEW YORK

By O. O. McIntyre.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—Young folk, touched by romance, find all every obstacle in the path of courtship in New York. So compact is the average family apartment that few girls can receive their beaux at home. They are generally forced to meet them at the corner.

Public parks are policed and sentimental cops often order the young lovers away. So thoughtless is the galloping metropolis toward starchy-eyed youngsters that one Bronx apartment house has this warning in its foyer: "No Necking in These Halls."

For poor but fervid romanticists about the only paradise left are the bus tops and darkened movies. Even some of the terrybobs display: "No Spooling." So lacking in sentiment is New York that more hand-holders are rebuked for a public display of affection than there are speakieses warned for selling poison.

But the repression has flared up in a blaze of independence. Love making, cast into the open, is making a brazen stand. Lumbering busses swaying along in the evening reveal cuddlers in tight embrace and exchanging smacks for all the curiously minded to see.

In the cinema cathedrals when lights bob on suddenly there is no hurried effort to break from strange holds. The majority in the house seem more interested—and sensuous too—in whispering sweet nothings than listening to hissing hams on the screen.

In the moderate priced cafes and table d'hotes hands are no longer outwinded under the table, but on top, and it is not unusual to see a tottering couple lean across for a lingering kiss. Indeed, along such a crowded thoroughfare as Broadway strolling couples frequently stop to embrace.

Another phase of the rebellion is seen at the quitting hour when young men wait outside office and factory buildings for their girls. Instead of a polite lift of the hat or a limp hand-shake, the young folk often snap into a quivering clinch.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—The Panic as a Spectacle. To many thousands of people who have been playing the "margin game" the stock market collapse has been a tragedy. To multitudes in New York, however, it was an entertainment spectacle. Great throngs jammed into Wall Street and the other narrow thoroughfares of the financial district to watch what they conceived to be a show. There was really nothing to see. There were no definite outward evidences of the fierce turmoil of stock selling going on inside of the exchange. Only a few scores could be admitted to the "strangers' gallery" of the exchange, and they saw the milling of the brokers on the floor without really understanding what was happening. After a time during the day admission to the gallery was denied. A placard was posted on the outer doors to that effect. It started a rumor, spread first by an excited messenger boy, that the exchange itself had been closed.

Just what the crowd expected to see is beyond easy understanding. There were, it is true, rumors of brokers committing suicide by leaping from the windows of the skyscraper buildings. There were reports of desperate physical encounters within the exchange and within brokers' offices. These reports spread swiftly and caused thrills, and the crowd magnified the rumors into even graver happenings. As a matter of fact, there were no suicides, there were no fights; there was nothing but a lot of anxious, tired, harried men buying and selling stocks on the exchange floors, a volume of telephoning probably exceeding all records, a vast mass of torn paper memoranda and ticker tape. All the casualties were financial; all the excitement was in terms of intense physical activity in the transaction of an unprecedented volume of business.

Every time the radio is turned on lately some one is singing "My Sin." Perhaps it is persnickery, but many of us have sins of our own to think about.

Bootleggers are peddling period—the French substitute for absinthe, a flavored exhilarant along Parisian boulevards. It brings $25 a bottle in America, and after two of them strong men have been known to buzz right off to the land-lord to offer six months rent in advance.

A young Japanese, six years in America, sold his first short story and says nothing is quite so easy as Occidental literature. Hot potatoes—But don't stub an illustrious toe—Oh, Bootlegist of Tarkingtons!

"Broadway's" greatest need, writes a famous chef, "is an eating place where noise and glitter are sacrificed for filling food."

True, any dunker knows the Broadway doughnut does not hold the coffee it used to.

One ailment, common at this time, is practically disregarded by most persons. I refer to the cold, prevalent at every time of year. Nobody thinks of going to bed to nurse a cold, and unless it is very bad indeed, almost nothing is done to relieve it.

Of course, a cold is like influenza, in one sense. It is not serious if uncomplicated. Nobody ever died of influenza; nobody ever died from the immediate cause of a cold. It is the secondary pneumonia that is responsible for the serious and even fatal effects of influenza. The complications are what make a neglected cold dangerous.

The familiar type of cold begins in the nose. First there is a sense of dryness and then the nose begins to "run." Then it creeps around to other tissues than those lining the nasal passages.

In order to appreciate what the cold may do or where it may go, we must consider the nose in its relationship to other structures. What passageways exist, down which the disease may march to cause further trouble?

The direction usually taken is downward into the throat, peeps into the bronchial tubes and lungs. Perhaps the severity of the ailment may decrease within a few days, so that it sort of "tapers off" and disappears. Unfortunately, the symptoms may grow worse, because to the first infection has been added the disturbance produced by a second variety of germs.

But there is another passageway besides the large and open one to the throat. It is known as the Eustachian tube. This is a canal running from a point where the nose and throat join, upward and backward, somewhat more than an inch, in distance, to the interior of the ear, to what is called the "middle ear."

There is such a passageway on each side. The Eustachian tube is the drainage canal and ventilation pipe of the middle ear. It provides a means of escape for the secretions of the ear and also permits the passage of air.

If the tube is swollen and closed it gives the "stuffed up" feeling you have in a cold. This condition may cause slight deafness, similar to that caused by getting the ears full of water while in swimming.

A cold in the nose may find its way into the Eustachian tube. The lining of the nasal passages and of the ear passage are the same—mucous membrane passes from one part into the other. Disease may take this route and produce swelling of the passageway.

If the tissues are so swollen that air cannot get through, you can understand why the secretions from the lining of the ear, secretions increased by the inflammation, will be penned up within that cavity.

What happens then? Earache! Burning, throbbing, cutting pain. That is the way the trouble starts. A neglected cold in the nose, becomes a violent inflammation in the ear.

The Theaters

Miss Frederick "Evidence" Star

"Evidence," the Warner Bros. and Vitaphone all-talking picture, starring Pauline Frederick, and coming to the American theater Monday, is not the story of the usual domestic tangle. It may be called a quadrangle, with Pauline Frederick, the star, William Courtney, Conway Tearle and Lowell Sherman sharing the four corners of the plot with little Freddie Burke Frederick in the very center.

As the stage play "Evidence" was recognized as a powerfully dramatic denunciation of "circumstantial evidence" and it had phenomenal success in both England and America, Miss Frederick is superb as the woman who pays the price of the law's blunder.

Every member of the cast has the training of both stage and screen. Aside from the principals mentioned above the cast includes Alec B. Francis, Lionel Belmore, Ivan Simpson, Myrna Loy, Madeline Seymour, J. Du Rocher MacPherson is the author of the play in which "Evidence" is based. J. Grubb Alexander did the scenario, John Adolfi directed.

Salineville SCHOOLS WILL GIVE PROGRAM

SALINEVILLE, O., Nov. 9.—American Education Week will be observed in the Salineville schools beginning Monday, by a series of meetings in the Opera House.

The meeting will begin at 3:15 p. m. The program follows: Monday, Nov. 11—"Education for Faithful Citizenship"—Mrs. E. B. Conry.

Tuesday, Nov. 12—"Education for Worthy Home Membership"—Rev. H. C. Keevil.

Wednesday, Nov. 13—"Education and Spirit of Learning"—Rev. R. L. Wilson.

Thursday, Nov. 14—"School Opportunity Day"—Rev. W. W. Beckley.

Friday, Nov. 15—"Health and Safety Day."

A club has recently been organized in the high school called the "Nightingale" club. It is an honor club giving recognition to those who excel in scholarship. They will hold monthly meetings during the year. The membership totals nineteen. The following officers have been elected: President, Wilfred Everett; secretary, Martha Maple.

The local men who attended the School Masters' club meeting at Salem Thursday evening were Wilmer Bechtel, Leland Ramsey, Frank Hall, and C. C. Miller.

The local football team will play at 3:30 p. m. this afternoon at Bergholz.

The Elson Art display held during this week by the local schools has been well attended.

DR. SPAULDING STAYS AT YALE

NEW HAVEN, Conn.—Dr. Frank E. Spaulding, who came here nine years ago from Cleveland to head the department of education in the Yale graduate school, has retired from that position to continue only as Sterling professor of education.

Dr. Clyde M. Hill, who came here three years ago from the Southwest Missouri State Teachers' college, and is professor of secondary education in Yale, has succeeded Dr. Spaulding as department head.

Miss Bow is the hard-working little shop girl, serious-minded but glowing with "pep," who falls in love with James Hall, young clerk who is advanced to an enviable position—that of floor-walker. There follows a series of stirring sequences in which the love-boat barely escapes the perils of rocky villainies many times. But the finale is one that satisfies the millions of ardent Bow fans.

Two Black Crows On Ceramic Bill

Moran and Mack, the Two Black Crows, now add to their phonograph and radio fame by making their first screen appearance in Paramount's all talking comedy "Why Bring That Up?" a rapid fire story of the vaudeville stage, which is the feature attraction at the Ceramic Theater Monday.

"Why Bring That Up?" is from an original story by Octavus Roy Cohen, the famous author of negro stories.

In the picture you see Moran meeting Mack, the forming of the famous team—their struggle for recognition and you climb with them to success. They show you just how they make up their funny patter and best of all you see them in real life as well as black face, doing their rib-cracking dialect.

Moran and Mack, the Two Black Crows have the backing of an elaborate musical show, in the final scenes of their opus. A dazzling array of stage talent! "Why Bring That Up?" is real, you fairly feel every situation and they are all of such character, just like their records, that a child of eight years can fully understand.

Report Made of Services During 12 Months.

Approximately one-half of the $11,753 which Salvation Army workers will seek to raise in a 10-hour campaign next Tuesday will be spent in relief work, Field Major Joseph Hughes announced today.

Welfare needs have been estimated at $5,500, while $1,924 is sought for general administration, $2,000 for building repairs and alterations; $870 for underprivileged child and young people's work; $174 for hired help; $196 for band activities and $800 to liquidate a deficit in last year's work.

Aided 536 Families.

Report for the year beginning October, 1928, and ending October, 1929, shows that 2,945 hours were spent in visitation, 1,508 families having been called upon by Salvation Army workers. Approximately 227 persons were prayed for at the City hospital in 96 visits to the institution where 4,214 periodicals were distributed.

The Army held six jail meetings in this interim and made 24 visits to the city jail, constituting a total of 14 hours in prison reform work by the visitors where they found a total attendance of 38 and gave out 49 periodicals.

Members of the Army Sewing club held 39 meetings and spent 455 hours in visitation. Approximately 1,466 baskets of groceries and 360 pairs of shoes were distributed and 536 families given relief.

Held 505 Indoor Meetings. There was an attendance of 18,815 persons at 505 indoor meetings of the organization. Approximately 19,139 heard 236 open-air services which 2,614 members attended.

There were recorded 265 conversions during the year among soldiers.

DEATH ROLL

Mrs. Alice Ginter. LEETONIA, Nov. 9.—Mrs. Alice Ginter, 63, wife of John H. Ginter, died in her home northwest of here early this morning following an illness of heart trouble and diabetes. She suffered a paralytic stroke Thursday, from which she failed to recover.

Mrs. Ginter was born at Greenford, Mahoning county. Besides her husband she leaves two brothers, William Fregenezer, Greenford, and Charles, of near Leetonia. Funeral services will be held in the home at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon in charge of the Rev. C. L. Cope, pastor of the Leetonia Methodist Episcopal church. Burial will be made in the Oakdale cemetery.

Mary C. Rudibaugh. ROGERS, O., Nov. 9.—Mrs. Mary C. Rudibaugh, 83, widow of Henry Rudibaugh, died last night in the home of her son, J. A. Rudibaugh, of near here.

She also leaves a daughter, Mrs. Jennie Jones, Williamsport; one brother, William Pameake, Negley, and a sister, Mrs. James Knepper, Calcutta. Funeral services will be held tomorrow at 11 a. m., in the Rogers Methodist church, in charge of the Rev. B. H. Shaddock. Burial will be made in the Clarkson cemetery.

FINISH ROAD NEXT TUESDAY

Last of the concrete on the California Hollow section of the Youngstown - East Liverpool road will be poured probably Tuesday, County Surveyor Lloyd C. Kirk announced today.

Concrete is being poured at the rate of about 600 feet daily. About 1,500 feet of the road remained to be surfaced this morning. If the road is finished Tuesday or Wednesday it will be opened to traffic on or about December 3.

Berms will not be worked up by the contractors until next spring and during the winter motorists will be urged to drive carefully.

and 95 among young people. The Army is now organizing a boys' band and Life-Saving Girl Guards. It has co-operated with the Chamber of Commerce and kindred organizations in administering to the needy and the forming of a Woman's Home league, and has carried out systematic prison work every Sunday morning through the courtesy of Chief of Police Hugh J. McDermott.

600 PERSONS HEAR RAYMOND

New Jersey Man Delivers Final Lecture Here.

The successful business man must be a teacher, have character and must be able to persuade and convince, Frank Jewell Raymond, East Orange, N. J., business lecturer, told a group of about 600 men and women in the high school auditorium last night.

Last night's lecture, entitled "The Life of Business" was the second of a series, under the auspices of the Retail Merchants division of the Chamber of Commerce. He was introduced again last night by Superintendent of Schools Herbert G. Means.

Approximately 2,500 persons heard Mr. Raymond during his two-day visit in East Liverpool. In addition to the Thursday and Friday night lectures he also addressed the students of the high school at an assembly period Thursday morning. The merchant's committee which arranged the lecture consisted of J. E. Hedenquist, C. H. Rowan, Julius Erlanger, C. C. Cline, M. J. Newman and Secretary H. B. Barth.

He spoke in part as follows last night:

"This game of business, is a great big game. It is bigger than most of us have realized. We must be awake, alert, absorb information, file it in our mental card index system and then use that information when the proper time arrives. The mind is a most peculiar thing, in that if you are to develop it to its proper degree, you must give away that which is within it."

"Train your powers of observation on that which is your job to do each day. Don't let your eyes on what the other fellow is doing. To be big in business we must do business big. This can only be accomplished by paying strict attention to what your respective duties are, and by so doing we acquire that information, experience and methods of application which enable us to grow big as we progress. Make people look up to you, rather than at you."

"Regardless of the wealth of information you may have collected and stored away in your mental card index system, it will be of no value whatever to you unless you know how to use it effectively. Concentrate on the ability to speak clearly, tersely, so far as the use of words are concerned and aim at concise expression which, when mixed with your own enthusiasm will carry with it that sincere quality that secures conviction."

Forest Love

Thrilling Story of Romance of Modern Girl

By Hazel Livingston

What Has Gone Before.

Nancy Hollenbeck, young, vibrant and beautiful, becomes cynical towards love when she gives up Mat Tully at her mother's request because he is poor. She encourages the attentions of Jack Beamer, wealthy married man, who, enamored of Nancy, wishes to divorce his wife. On a mountain trip, Nancy falls in love with a handsome ranger, Roger Decatur. Leaving her chaperones, the rich Porters, Nancy, after a violent but brief courtship, secretly marries Roger. Doubts assail her as she spends long, lonely days in his rough mountain cabin. She is startled by the telephone bell. It is Mrs. McKimmons, a neighboring ranger's wife. Nancy is troubled as she pictures herself growing to be like her. But she is happy when Roger is with her. When he tries to leave on a long trip, Nancy begs him not to go. Unable to bear the rough shack without him, she packs her belongings and returns home. Her mother notices her hand.

Now Go On With the Story.

"Louise—Nancy's hand—she—she's—" mama faltered, pointing. Louise jumped up from the plane at the very moment that Nancy with a little cry sat bolt upright and stared at them in horror. "What—what—" she began, almost afraid to look. She couldn't—she couldn't have left on her wedding ring. . . . she took it off long before she got home. But what else could make mama . . .

At last her eyes turned downward. She saw her hand, innocent of rings. "Well! What is the matter?" she cried. Mama sniffed, but continued to point. "Your hands, Nancy . . . they're terrible. All chapped and your finger nails broken . . . I declare, if you have to come home from a trip looking like that . . ."

Nancy put both hands behind her. "I thought it was a tarantula at the very least! You—you frightened me!"

"You frightened me!" mama quavered. "It gave me a turn. Seeing one of my girls with hands like that. Like a . . . washerwoman. What did you do to ruin your pretty nails—"

"I went to the High Sierras on what was practically a camping trip. I rode horseback without gloves—"

"But dear you had gloves—those 'rico dookin'—"

"I know. Can't I have a good time without thinking of my finger nails for five minutes? We made fires outside, and broiled bacon and . . . oh, you don't understand!"

"No. When I was a girl I didn't have to ruin my nails and spoil all my lovely clothes to have a good time. I had too much consideration for her dear mother who gave them to me—"

Nancy sprang to her feet, quivering. "Mama, if you start that again I'll scream. I can't stand it. I tell you! I'll go away again. I'll—I'll—"

She broke down and cried then, and Lou put comforting arms around her, coaxing, "Go upstairs and lie down. You're all tired out still. Don't be silly! Mama doesn't mean anything!"

Up in her old room again with the big windows open and the scent of honeysuckles and vergera coming up from the garden, Nancy relaxed a little. The wind was cool, and the old downfilled comforter with the faded blue and pink silk-rose, filled her with a pleasant warmth. After all, this was home. She belonged here. Why should she let mama's fussing upset her? Lou was right, it was perfectly meaningless. No doubt about their being overjoyed to have her back . . . they had almost smothered her when she got in last night . . . even papa who tried to be dignified had furtively wiped his eyes. It was good to be home . . . she sighed and snuggled deeper into the pillows. Her eyes closed. For the first time in forty-eight hours, Nancy was asleep.

"That high altitude," mama decided. "I never agreed with me either. I remember that summer I went south when I was a young girl. Crossing the mountains I fainted dead away. Dead away. It was weeks before I was myself again. Doctor McGillycurdy—he was the fashionable physician in those days, ordered sherry nad egg . . . or was it sulphur and molasses? Nancy, you wouldn't take just a little—"

"No thanks! Nor any raw eggs either. Of course if we had some sherry—"

Mama's little face puckered into a thousand wrinkles. "Nancy, mama knows you're joking, but you mustn't SAY things like that. It sounds common. I won't have it!"

Nancy grinned and lit another cigarette. She had been home a week now, and her nerves were vanishing. She was no longer irritable, inclined to tears.

May Belle Craig and Helen Heflinger, passing in Helen's smart little coupe, saw Nancy's head as a window and came in for a moment's gossip.

"How did you stay so long with the terrible Porters?" May Belle thrilled, before she was comfortably seated. "Mother met Mrs. Porter, she says she's a mess. And you and the two younger females stayed alone at Reno? I never heard of such a thing. Naughty, naughty!"

"With the Porter girls nothing naughty is possible."

"Yes, my dear—but why? What was the attraction? Mama, poor simple minded soul is burning with curiosity to find out what you were up to. She almost cried because she didn't get a chance to question the aged Porter. With her pure mind she thought of Jack Beamer, of course. Nancy, dear, did you go to his Nevada ranch?"

"Of course not! I never saw him!"

"Well, you know all the old cats talked about the day he carried on over you at the house party, and he left the same day you did . . . but my dear, if it wasn't Jack who was it? You can't tell me you were on a pure sight-seeing tour with two other females—"

"Yes, tell us!" Helen begged. Her florid face was flushed with excitement. Romance went straight to Helen's head. The Hollenbeck girls had always been sorry for her, in spite of her lovely clothes, her rich doting father, her name in the society columns. The men didn't like her. Hostesses were always prodding eligible young men, "Dance this with Helen Heflinger, there's a dear! She's really a good dancer—truly she is!"

"Well, there was a good looking ranger, whom we bumped into everywhere we went. Good looking! Like something out of a movie—"

"A ranger! Next to the Royal Mounted they're simply the most exciting . . . but you always were lucky, Nancy Hollenbeck!"

"Nonsense, May Belle. It wasn't anything . . . much I'll bet you've been up to much more mischief. Has Gil proposed yet?"

"As if I'd tell!" But May Belle wriggled and blushed.

"And Helen, too," Nancy went on graciously, admiring her own tact. Helen loved to be accused of misbehavior.

"Oh, just a wee summer flirtation with Mat Tully. He had a crush on me, but I'm not so thrilled. Of course every one is noticing him because he's supposed to be so brilliant, but I still have the Royal Mounted I met the summer Dad and I went to the Rockies—"

"Come on, Helen. You won't have any dinner if you don't move. Bye Nancy—bye Lou—see you soon. Don't you dare forget the Venetian carnival!"

Nancy drew a long sigh when they were gone.

"Did you hear what May Belle said about her mother, Lou? Just like her to make trouble." The pucker came back between her eyebrows. "Mrs. Porter doesn't like me either, she'd say things if she could . . . you know I really was with the ranger a lot . . . you don't think she'd go to see Aunt Ellie? Still Aunt Ellie has no telephone, and that deaf maid never hears the doorbell . . . Lou, you don't think she would?"

"I'm sorry, Nan—I wasn't listening. What was it?"

"You weren't listening!"

"No, I—I was thinking . . . positively, Helen Heflinger is a pathological liar. Mounted Police! She never knew one by name! And as for Mat Tully having anything to do with her! I don't believe it!"

"Who cares?" Nancy murmured. She was too absorbed in her own thoughts to notice her sister's hectic flush and dark snapping eyes. Minutes passed.

Louise shook herself angrily and began to rearrange the living room chairs. "Oh, May Belle's gossip reminds me. Jack Beamer sent those roses that were here when you came back."

"Ho . . . he did! . . . was there any word?"

"Mama took the card." "Mama took the card! Mama took my letter! Mama!" Nancy was in the kitchen in two leaps.

"Mama, Lou says you have the card Mr. Beamer sent with the roses. I'd like to know why you took my letter—"

"Only a card," mama said indistinctly, her mouth full of peas she was shelling for dinner.

"But I won't have you reading my mail, interfering in my affairs!"

"Nancy! Mama won't have it. I meant to tell you I didn't like Mr. Beamer's sending flowers. It doesn't look well. Those things are so easily misinterpreted. A gentleman of Mr. Beamer's social experience should know how easily people—"

A scornful, pitying smile twisted Nancy's lovely mouth. "If that's all you have to worry about—roses!" she said, "don't bother me about it. I have troubles of my own!"

But when her mother stepped backward, gentle eyes starting, lit the old hands at her withered throat, Nancy melted.

"Oh, mummy, mummy you mustn't mind me!" she cried, enveloping her in one of the old bear-hug embraces. "I'm just your bad girl, blowing up about nothing . . . and I'm so nervous . . ."

Half mollified Mrs. Hollenbeck straightened her mussed hair and settled her high net collar. "Mama understands," she said with dignity, "but you must not be so secretive. Can't you tell mama your little secrets just as you always have?"

Quite unexpectedly Nancy burst into tears.

"There, there," Mrs. Hollenbeck soothed. "Mama's girl!"

Santa Advises All Christmas Radio Buyers to Join the

Six Foremost Makes Christmas Radio Club

"A Radio Christmas"

That's what they're saying from one end of the country to the other. And East Liverpool has joined in with an enthusiasm that is certain to break all past records.

And rightly so, for no gift can possibly give the whole family more year around enjoyment than one of these Six Famous Makes, which we feel sure you will choose.

In this unprecedented preference for a Radio Christmas, these Six Foremost makes, stand out in the field of radio, and are being chosen as the favorites, and this favoritism will be made doubly attractive by the Smith & Phillips Music Co.'s, Christmas Radio Club.

And the Special Inducement Offered to Every Member.

This announcement of the Smith-Phillips Music company is made to urge every one anticipating a "Radio Christmas" to join our "Six Famous Makes Radio Club" at once, so that we can place our orders for sufficient radios to supply the demand and still not overstock, and for this we offer a special inducement.

AND HERE'S THE PLAN—

Come in and choose the radio that you like, consisting of Majestic, Gulbransen, Radiola, Victor, Zenith, and Brunswick. Pay a small amount each week until Christmas... On December 24th, or sooner, if you desire such an arrangement, we will deliver the set that you have selected to your home, with a handsome present for your Christmas. The remainder can be paid in small payments, which we will gladly arrange to suit your own convenience.

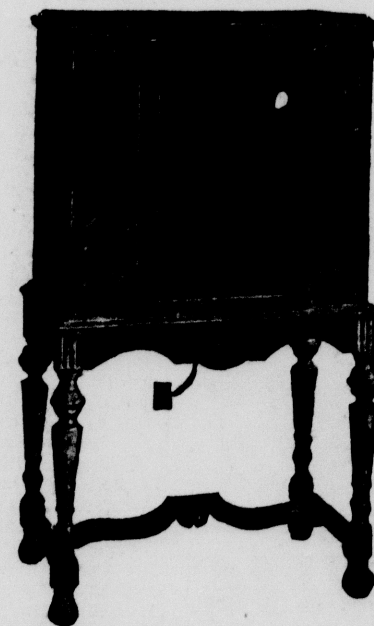

And please remember that any one of these sets that we have mentioned will give your home a brighter atmosphere.

Select any one, have the world's finest orchestras in your home, just a turn of the dial and they are ready to play for you and your guests at a moment's notice.

Lack of Scoring Punch Handicaps Ohio Squad

Columbus Critics Have Hunch, However, That Willaman Cohorts Will Reach Apex of Their Power.

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 9.—Will the Wildcats wax wilder? Or will Willaman's warriors wham 'em? That's the question before Northwestern and Ohio State cross their battle-axes on the scene of someone's slaughter at Ohio stadium here this afternoon.

Dope out this gridiron gnash? How could anyone really compare the relative prospects of the two teams? Neither the purple nor the scarlet and gray has met a mutual opponent. However, Western Conference critics predict that Northwestern is anywhere from an edge better to being at least two touchdowns stronger than State.

The consensus of opinion seems to be expressed by Alton Holden, who wrote thusly in the Chicago Herald-Examiner:

"The Buckeyes are no pushover, but in their last four games have scored only two touchdowns, one on a blocked punt and one on a long forward pass on which a green halfback of the opposition was taking a nap. Hence the notion that the Buckeyes have no scoring punch seems fairly well established. A Northwestern team that could stop every threat from Illinois ought to be able to bottle up the Ohio State offense and seal it until next year. Northwestern should win by a couple of touchdowns."

AT CLEVELAND: — Emmett Rocco, Elwood City, knocked out Tommy Kirby, in ninth round (10). Ted Sandwina, knocked out Big Boy Peterson, Chicago, in fourth round (10).

AT PITTSBURGH: — Hans Roberts, German, won 10-round decision over Donnick Proffo, Cecil, Pa.

AT ERIE: — Frankie Le Fay, Troy, won 10-round decision over Maxie Strub, Erie.

AT TORONTO: — Steve Rocco won 10-round decision over Happy Atherton, Indianapolis.

AT TAMPA: — Tommy Jones, Atlanta, and Rolmapago Sanguero, Cuba, fought 10 rounds to a draw.

AT SAN FRANCISCO: — Jimmy O'Dowd, Salt Lake, middleweight, won from Wesley Ketchell, Portland, Ore., on a foul (4).

AT LOS ANGELES, Cal.: — Frankie Campbell, San Francisco light heavyweight, knocked out Alex Rowe, Los Angeles (4).

AT CLEVELAND, O., Nov. 9.—Western Reserve university breaks into big time football circles again today when Cornell university is played at Ithaca. Coach Gordon Locke's Red Cats will enter the game with a lot of confidence as a result of their surprising victory over St. Xavier at Dunn field last Saturday.

The Cincinnati team, with an unblemished record, entered the game top heavy favorites, but the Reserve boys flashed a brand of football which was far superior to anything they had shown and won by a margin of three touchdowns to one. The line play was greatly improved in this game, which enabled the backs, Malone, Smith, Spohn, Roese, and Platz to show a real offense.

Coach Locke deserves a lot of credit for tackling so many strong teams on the 1929 schedule with a very green outfit. Of the eleven men who played in the St. Xavier game, seven are Sophomores. This includes the entire line, with the exception of John Heppi, tackle, a junior, and Bob Moss, also a junior, who was shifted from end to tackle. With these men gaining experience this year and a good crop of Freshman performers coming up for next year, Reserve should have its strongest team in 1930.

Reserve at Ithaca.
Two other contests, one of which is being played at Ithaca, New York, also are entitled, and justly so, to a portion of the spotlight. Western Reserve is in the eastern city to provide scrimmage for the night Cornell team. The Wildcats of Coach Gordon Locke probably will be sent back to Cleveland tamed into docility.

Dayton University's Fliers will engage St. Xavier's Musketeers at Cincinnati for a 21-inch trophy cup, which has been donated by Governor Myers V. Cooper. This will be the first time in seven years that the two schools have met upon the ancient and honorable gridiron. The two teams, figuratively shook hands and were reconciled after "cold-shouldering" each other for seven years. It will be a bitter battle today.

Ohioans were given a taste of what to expect by three games which were played yesterday. Baldwin Wallace now leads the Ohio conference by virtue of its 20 to 13 win over Otterbein yesterday. The Bereans have not been defeated this year and they have only been tied once. Findlay, however, took an unexpected victory from Adrian at Adrian, Michigan, by a 13 to 7 score and Wilmington beat Cedarville, 33 to 14.

Title Claim at Stake.
Reverting to the Ohio Wesleyan-Wittenberg clash, it must be pointed out that the contest will mark the finish of aspirations of Buckeye conference championship honors for one of the teams. Which ever team loses may count itself out of the race. Each has lost one game in the "Big Six" and a second game in the defeat column would practically put the loser out of the running.

Other games today, with an attempt to place the favorites, are: Akron vs. Ohio Northern at Akron (Akron). Ashland vs. Their (Pa.) at Ashland.

WHO'S WHO IN SATURDAY'S GRID GAMES

Ten intersectional games mark the East's football card on Saturday, three of which will command intense interest. The two most important contests will be played in the middle west, where Army tangles with Illinois and Harvard plays Michigan. In the West New York University attempts to check Georgia's bulldogs, conquerors of Yale in an early season game. At the upper right is Cagle of Army, who will be pitted against Peters of Illinois (lower left). The upp shows Waugh, of Georgia, who will test the prowess of O'Herin of New York University (lower). At the upper right is Dahlen of Michigan, who will be confronted with one of the famous brothers, Tichnor of Harvard (lower).

Pick Ohio U. To Advance Over Denison

Experts Favor Bishops Over Lutherans, Also.

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 9.—The O's have "it" in football-mad Ohio today.

"It" does not necessarily designate gridiron superiority, but rather that irresistible magnetism which draws thousands upon thousands of sport fans to those sunny, green and chalk-marked turfs, where moleskin classics are fought, won, tied and lost.

Ohio State's gridders will hurl themselves against the highly-touted Northwestern Wildcats; Ohio Wesleyan with its crew of Fighting Bishops is at Springfield to debate its pigskin prowess with the fighting Lutherans of Wittenberg; Ohio University will continue its march toward the "Big Six" championship at the expense of Denison at Granville, and the strong Oberlin eleven will match its skill with Miami's big red team.

In all of the contests there are slight favorites. The purple-clad warriors from Evanston are given the edge over Sam Willaman's charges by virtue of their victory over Illinois last Saturday. Prosa past performances, Wesleyan has a fair chance to defeat Wittenberg. The Bobcats should have no trouble at all in piling up a large score against Denison, and if Miami doesn't trounce Oberlin it will be entirely its own fault.

Reserve at Ithaca.

Pro Gridders Play In Sharpsville, Pa.

Potters Face All-star Aggregation of Former College, High School and Sandlot Luminaries Sunday.

On to Sharpsville! East Liverpool Pro gridders, defeated in only one encounter this season, will make their second invasion of western Pennsylvania territory tomorrow when they go into Sharpsville for a scuffle with the Sharpsville Merchants.

The Pros tackled a tough one the last time they took a flier in Pennsylvania football on a Pennsylvania gridiron and the Sunday booking appears almost a duplicate.

The Pros have one consolation in the fact that the Sharpsville combine can't be any tougher than the championship West View eleven, and the best the West View lads could do was two touchdowns against the Potters.

The Sharpsville eleven will have Palmer of Springfield Tech and Bolt of Grove City at the flanks; Sperriney, sandlotter and Dunley, high school, at the tackles; Jones, another sandlotter, and Fox, former Pitt captain, at the guards, with Cornea of Penn State at center; Mehler, Colgate captain in 1927 at quarter. Another, high school, and Christman, Sharon high and Thiel star, at the halves; and Thompson, Sharpsville high, at full.

Sperriney, Jones, Thompson and Mehler tip the beam at more than 200 pounds each, while the rest of the boys weigh a mere 180 or so.

Lee, who has proven one of the Pros' most consistent stars in games to date, will be at one end, and Mundy at the other, with Hinkle and Bell on tackles; McKenny and Boso at guards; Pick at center; English at quarter; Finley and Halpate at guards and Jones at full.

The Pros will meet at the B. & B. cafe at 10 a. m. Fans who figure on making the trip are also asked to meet there at the same hour.

Fans making the trip can follow route 7 into Hubbard and switch over to route 19 into Sharon. Sharpsville is not far from Sharon. The game is scheduled for 2:30 o'clock.

Battered Illini Team Awaits Army Invasion

Secretary of War James Good and Governor Louis Emmerson in Stands; Cadets in Top Condition.

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Nov. 9.—A bruised and battered Illinois team that has had no scrimmage for an entire week faced Mr. Cagle and his strong Army team this afternoon before 68,000 persons. Chief among the spectators are Secretary of War James W. Good and Gov. Louis Emmerson. With them will be a collection of high army officers.

Eight of Coach Bob Zuppke's regulars were in their street clothing yesterday when the Illinois injuries brought back from the Northwestern defeat have left the Illini lineup in doubt.

If Frosty Peters' ankle is brought to normal size by game time the master kicker and passer will form the keystone of Zuppke's attack.

In contrast to the limping Illini, the Army squad is in first class shape with Coach Biff Jones able to send his best bets on the field for the kickoff.

A dry, fast field is assured for today's intersectional strife, a matter that proves of no great advantage together aggressor.

Speed Spirit Stamina

beyond anything you have ever known at its price

Watch the Pontiac Big Six on the open road, revealing top speeds such as no other car in its field can match. See it leap eagerly ahead at a green light, accelerating with unrivaled snap and spirit. . . . Pontiac is equally far ahead of its field in stamina and long life, due to many wear-resisting features such as crankcase ventilation which prevents dilution of engine oil—positive full pressure lubrication at all speeds—and the Harmonic Balancer which counteracts torsional vibration in the crankshaft. . . . Come in today. Learn how easily you can own and enjoy the finest car the market affords at its low price.

Pontiac Big Six, $745 to $995, f. o. b. Pontiac, Mich., plus delivery charges. Bumpers, spring covers and Lefever shock absorbers regular equipment at slight extra cost. General Motors Time Payment Plan available at minimum rate.

Consider the delivered price as well as the list (f. o. b.) price when comparing automobile values. . . . Outland-Pontiac delivered prices include only authorized charges for freight and delivery and the charge for any additional accessories or financing desired.

$10,000 ASKED
IN AUTO CRASH

Elsie Stevens Sues
M. E. Grumet, East
Liverpool.

LISBON, O., Nov. 9.—Because an automobile skidded and crashed into a car in which she was a passenger, a $10,000 damage action has been filed in common pleas court by Elsie Stevens against Max E. Grumet, both of East Liverpool.

highway, south of Chester, W. Va., when Grumet, en route north, attempted to pass an automobile parked on the road. In applying his brakes, Grumet's car skidded and crashed into the machine in which the plaintiff was a passenger, causing her to be severely injured, she alleges. She was unable to work for three months. The wreck occurred last Aug. 8.

Brookes and Thompson represent the plaintiff.

Call for Bids on Bridge.
LISBON, O., Nov. 9.—Bids will be opened by the state highway department at Columbus on Nov. 26 for the construction of a bridge on the Cox highway, or the Salem-Albion road, in Perry township. The cost has been estimated at $9,846.23.

FIVE DIVORCE ACTIONS FILED

LISBON, O., Nov. 9.—Floyd Hykes of 66½ East Main street, Salem has filed a divorce petition in common pleas court against his wife, Velma Hykes, charging gross neglect of duty and extreme cruelty. They were married Feb. 23, 1926 and have one child.

Elsie Mae Richardson, 661 Erie street, Youngstown, told her husband, Fred C. Richardson, that she was "going to Florida this winter with the man she loved," according to a divorce petition filed by Richardson. The defendant is also charged with adultery. They were married January 22, 1920.

In the divorce action filed by Laura H. Peachey against her husband Vincent R. Peachey, the court has ordered the defendant to pay the plaintiff $50 as counsel fees. The injunction heretofore allowed has been dissolved, and the case has been dismissed at the cost of the plaintiff.

On the grounds of gross neglect of duty, a divorce has been granted Emerson F. Foreman from his wife, Bertha V. Foreman. Extreme cruelty was charged in the alimony petition filed by Myrtle Anderson against her husband, P. S. Anderson, and a divorce decree was granted. A decree for alimony has been entered on the record.

GEORGE BUTA HEARING NOV. 13

LISBON, O., Nov. 9.—A charge of illegal possession of liquor filed against George Buta of Salem before Probate Judge Lodge Riddle will be changed to a second offense, it was announced today. Buta is under $1,000 bond pending a hearing Nov. 13.

Buta is said to have left the place of business of Steve Cosgara, several weeks ago, when Sheriff W. J. Barlow arrested Cosgara.
